

It's the lighting round Frostburners!

We need you, right now. No, right now! To help Frostburn. We have multiple effigy and ticket art submissions, we need unbiased community members to select which designs will be used for Frostburn 2015.

We are collecting names until Wednesday (12/17) at 11:59PM

From there we will select 6 names from list, it will be random and blindly done and with much excitement (I'm extremely excited) The selected 6 will be randomly divided into 2 committees to selected either the effigy or the laminated ticketing art.

How will it randomly and blindly be done you ask?! This way!

To put your name into the hat, send email to teppy@egenesis.com along with a "magic" 3-digit number (you get to make that 3-digit number up yourself!). The names will be chosen by a fancy algorithm that guarantees a random unbiased selection of evaluators.

Fancy algorithm: All N email addresses of candidates will be alphabetized. The magic numbers will be added together to get a number M. Pick the $(M \bmod N)$ th email address as the first evaluator. Remove that person from the list and run the algorithm again picking the $(M \bmod (N-1))$ th person as the second moderator, and again picking the $(M \bmod (N-2))$ th person as the third.

From there! The selected parties will be contacted, their desire to help confirmed and then put in touch with each other with the potential submissions handed over for review and discussion.

We are announcing the effigy and ticket art winners this Sunday (12/21/2014) that means that if you are selected to help you need to be able to review the information, participate (via phone or email) in a discussion about the submissions and then vote between Wednesday morning and Sunday morning. Can you do it? (YES YOU CAN!)

Do you already know about an effigy submission, maybe your are potentially helping build it or are somehow affiliated with the build crew? We love you, but you're disqualified. We need the unattached, unbiased, keen eyed Frostburner for this task. This is me trusting you to be honest with us and yourself about your affiliation.

Share the warth!
